Property reassessments released for Hyde Park Township

Residential and commercial properties in Hyde Park Township show modest growth

The Cook County Assessor's Office released initial assessments of residential and commercial properties in Hyde Park Township. This is the last of eight townships in the City of Chicago to be reassessed in 2021 under the leadership of Assessor Fritz Kaegi, who took office after Chicago's last reassessment in 2018.

"We've seen some growth in value in Hyde Park Township but not as much as in other areas of the city," said Assessor Kaegi. "In some areas, home values are rising significantly, though others have plateaued. Despite the pandemic, downtown rents have increased since 2018, but Hyde Park's commercial properties grew the least of other Chicago townships."

Increases in assessments reflect increase in property values. Assessments, under Illinois law, should reflect overall market values. The first step to ensuring property owners pay only their fair share of property taxes—without needing to file appeals to correct inaccurate assessments—is to make sure assessments of all property types accurately reflect the real estate market.

Changes in assessed value in Hyde Park Township

The following chart represents the increase in total assessed value in residential and commercial properties in Hyde Park Township.

Property Group	2018 (Board of Review Final)	2021 (pre-CCAO appeals, pre-Board of Review)	Increase in total Assessed Value
Residential (Class 2)	$1,248,744,416	$1,288,599,723	3%
All other classes	$704,816,689	$939,511,647	33%
Total	$1,953,561,105	$2,228,111,370	14%

Note: Percentage increases and total increases are for all properties in that category. Assessment increases or decreases to individual properties vary, depending on each property's location and characteristics.

How assessments relate to property taxes

An increase in a property's assessment does not lead to the same increase in an individual property's tax bill. A property's share of taxes depends on reassessments throughout all of Chicago, from homes in Chatham and Jefferson Park to commercial properties in Little Village and the Loop.

Property reassessments are ongoing for Chicago's remaining two townships. If the growth in assessed values throughout Chicago outpaces the growth of the assessed value of an individual property in Hyde Park Township, that individual property's share of property taxes could shrink despite its increase in property value.

Property assessments in Chicago are used to apportion taxing district levies, which pay for services such as schools, parks, libraries, and pensions. The Assessor does not set levies or tax rates. In addition, increases in assessments do not necessarily increase the revenue received by taxing districts.

The graph to the left demonstrates that in Hyde Park Township, there were increases in both residential and non-residential total assessed value. These increases also shifted Hyde Park's balance of residential and non-residential assessed value.

At the end of the 2018 reassessment cycle, 64% of Hyde Park Township's total assessed value was residential, with the other 36% comprised non-residential and commercial multi-family properties.

The 2021 initial reassessed values have shifted this to 58% residential, and 42% non-residential and commercial multi-family properties.

These percentages may change at the final stage of assessment after appeals are processed by the Assessor's Office and by the Board of Review.

The 2021 assessments will affect the second installment property tax bill issued in late 2022.

Residential assessments

- In 2020, median sale prices of single-family homes in Hyde Park Township were about $150,000 for single-family homes and $170,000 for condos.

- In its assessment models, the Assessor's Office estimated the 2021 median market value of single-family homes in Hyde Park Township was $150,000 and median condo value was $140,000. Estimates depend on the individual property's location and characteristics.

The assessments for single-family homes and condos met all three International Association of Assessing Officer standards for high-quality assessments.

Third-party reporting, including a 2017 report in the Chicago Tribune, showed that the previous reassessments of the City of Chicago resulted in overassessment of some lower-value homes while higher-value homes typically were underassessed.

Commercial assessments

Hotels and retail properties are among the sectors with the largest declines since the onset of COVID, whereas rents in multi-family apartments, grocery stores, industrial buildings, and data centers have been stable or experienced positive growth since the onset of COVID. In the Assessor's Office 2021 models:

- Market rents for apartments in Hyde Park range from $438 to $2500 a month.
 - Market vacancy is between 10 and 16%.
 - Market values are estimated from $16k to $248k per unit.
- Affordable housing figures are calculated separately and will be listed in the complete report.
- Office buildings in Hyde Park Township range in size from 2000 to 387k in square footage and are assessed at $4 - $29 in rent per square foot with 5-20% market vacancy.
 - Estimated market values are $28-$163 per square foot.

A report from the International Association of Assessing Officers stated that commercial properties in Chicago were underassessed in 2018, which may have shifted some of the property tax burden from commercial properties to residential properties. The 2021 reassessments reflect current market data and commercial property's share of the market.

Appealing property assessments

If the property characteristics listed on an assessment notice are incorrect, or if the estimated market value of a property is significantly more than what it could sell for in the current real estate market, property owners should file an appeal.

Property owners are encouraged to use the Assessor's Office's new, award-winning online system to file their appeals.
